Worried Over What World Will Think

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who shot Negro leader James H. Meredith in the back from ambush on a Mississippi highway let loose more than he could imagine.

Enemies and critics of the United States can hold up this shooting as a symbol of "American barbarism" before the world, which still remembers President John F. Kennedy was shot in the back.

They can say with truth a Negro's life is not safe in America if he tries to walk down a country road peacefully, even when escorted by white friends, as the 32-year-old Meredith was.

The greatest irony behind his wounding lay in proving the very thing he had sought to disprove on his 225-mile march from Memphis, Tenn., to Jackson in the heart of his native Mississippi.

He had told newsmen before starting out one of the two reasons for his trip was to help Negroes, including himself, conquer the fear they feel while living or traveling in Mississippi. His other reason was to encourage Negroes to vote.

At the same time this wanton act of violence may be used as a handy excuse for passionate or extremist Negroes to retaliate with violence of their own in North or South in the days ahead, individually or in mobs.

This crime against Meredith gives unexpected and tremendous support to President Johnson's recent request for new legislation in the field of justice to protect the rights of Negroes and civil rights workers.

"What gain is there," the President said in asking Congress to approve his proposals, "for either conscience or country if we proudly affirm human rights and then permit those rights to be swept aside by lawless fanatics?"

He said: "Perhaps the most evident threat to civil rights in 1966 is the danger that recently secured rights may be violently denied by a relatively few racial fanatics.

"Citizens who honor the law and who tolerate orderly change — a majority in every part of the country — have been shocked by attacks on innocent men and women who sought no more than justice for all Americans."

Medicare May Become a Liability

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Medicare, rated as one of President Johnson's major political triumphs, could turn into a 1966 political liability if the vast health insurance plan gets off to a limping start July 1.

"The President is very much concerned over what's going to happen," reported one source familiar with the preparedness planning.

"The reaction could be bad if there is a jam in the hospitals, or inability in some areas to provide all the promised services, or a shortage of participating hospitals in the South because of noncompliance with the civil rights rules," the source said.

"And the timing is lousy, at this stage in a congressional election year."

To smooth medicare's take-off, the White House has invited 200 leading physicians and hospital administrators, representing every state, to a conference here next Wednesday.

Johnson is expected to appeal for cooperation in conserving hospital space and medical services, preventing abuses, encouraging compliance with civil rights requirements and promoting better understanding of what the law does and does not do.

Government officials and hospital administrators are concerned that many of the 19 million elderly Americans entitled to hospital benefits expect more than the law actually provides — and may react angrily if their expectations are not met.

The government does not guarantee a hospital bed or visiting-nurse service. Nor does it guarantee, in the case of the optional doctor-bill insurance costing $3 a month, the availability of doctors.

The government has merely undertaken to pay most of the bill.

Officials anticipate an increase of not more than 5 percent in hospital usage nationwide. But government spokesmen admit the bulge could be greater in some areas and that any increase would create a critical problem in the cities where medical facilities already are overloaded.

Hospitals dislike the provision under which each elderly patient pays the first $40 of his bill because they suspect many aged persons are not aware of this so-called deductible.

Medicare also might fuel the fires of racial controversy.

Hoffa Moves to Slap Down Any Opposition

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa moved today to crush the bid of Vice President Harold Gibbons to grab the reins of the giant union if Hoffa goes to prison.

The twice-convicted Hoffa predicted Gibbons will drop his plan to run for the new post of executive vice president at the union's July 4 convention in Miami Beach.

"He won't even run," Hoffa told a newsmen. "I'd be the most amazed man in the world if he did." Earlier, Hoffa had said "I doubt if he gets 175 votes" at the convention.

Convention delegates, who are sure to re-elect Hoffa to another five-year term, will have 2,200 votes.

But whoever wins the executive vice presidency could wind up running the 1.7-million-member union — the world's largest.

Hoffa, awaiting a Supreme Court review of his eight-year jury tampering conviction, wants Detroit Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons to have the post, automatically becoming president if Hoffa goes to prison.

"The waters, the winds, the names, the flowers, the peace," Hoffa said, "I always wanted to come to the place that was loved so much."

Czechs Line Up With Soviet Plan

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — In contrast with Romania, Czechoslovakia's ruling Communist party called today for "broad inclusion" of the country's economy into the Soviet-promoted plan allotting each East European country specific economic tasks.

The party published a resolution adopted at its 13th congress last week and calling for economic guidelines within the framework of the Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, the Communist counterpart of the European Common Market.

Romania has spurned Soviet integration schemes in favor of independent industrialization and closer trade ties with the West.

School Board Can't Alter Terms

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Blytheville School Board cannot alter the terms of its members without approval of voters, the Attorney General's Office said Tuesday.

Supt. J. K. Williams said two of the eight board members are to be elected this year, two in 1967 and four in 1968. The board proposes to alter the terms so voters would choose only one member each year.

Pilkinton Pledges He'll Work at Job

James H. Pilkinton, former chancellor of the 6th Judicial District, opened his state campaign headquarters Saturday at 123 W. Markham Little Rock with a pledge that if elected, he will be a "working lieutenant governor" and not a "playboy or greeter."

Pilkinton leased his headquarters until after the general election in November, offering the space after the primaries as a Democratic State Headquarters.

He charged that Republican Winthrop Rockefeller "handpicked" Maurice "Footsie" Britt, the Republican nominee.

Pilkinton said Britt was without experience on any governmental level, either state or local, and suggested that it would be unfair to Britt to elect him to such an important office.

"Like the vice-president, the lieutenant governor is only a heartbeat away from being governor," expalined Pilkinton, referring to his own background as a former state senator and his service on the bench.

He said thinking people will agree with him that he is the best qualified candidate on either the Democratic or Republican ticket.

He is campaigning on the slogan, "Ask Any Lawyer!"

One of the other candidates said the other day that the lieutenant governor didn't need any qualifications, but "I disagree," Pilkinton said.

Apparently some people would like to be elected so they can attend all the parties and conventions and have a good time at the state's expense, Pilkinton said.

The state needs a solid, mature, experienced man who could preside over the Senate efficiently, he continued, and serve as governor as the occasion should arise.

Pilkinton said he would use the appropriation to the lieutenant governor's office to research laws and aid the legislature whenever possible.

He added that he would not attempt to usurp the governor's authority as some other candidates have implied that they would.

"There is so much constructive that a qualified lieutenant governor could do for the state in addition to his routine duties," he said, such as careful study towards revision of hospital, health and accident insurance laws.

"What some folks by night" — companies do, particularly to the elderly because of the coming of Medicare, is a shame and disgrace," Pilkinton asserted.

He predicted that the legislature will want to do something about this in the 1967 General Assembly.

His campaign headquarters passed out copies of a letter addressed to: "Dear Fellow Official" urging support for Pilkinton and signed by Jimmie Griffin, Sheriff and Collector; Mrs. J. D. (Dick) Turnage, County Clerk; Jim Cole, Circuit and Chancery Clerk; Harry Hawthorne, Treasurer, and Carter Sutton, Assessor, all of Hempstead County.

Pilkinton was born at Hope in 1914 and attended Hempstead County public schools. He was graduated from Henderson State Teachers College with a B. A. degree in 1936 and attended Arkansas law school in Little Rock. He was admitted to practice in 1937.

Pilkinton served in the Navy during World War II and later retired as a reserve officer.

He was the first president of the Hempstead County Industrial Development Corp., and now serves as president of the Hope school board.

He has also served on the board of directors of the Hope Kiwanis Club and was moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Arkansas, presently serving as clerk of the session of the First Presbyterian Church of Hope.

He was instrumental in restoration of historical Washington, Arkansas, (site of the state capitol in the civil war) and is president of the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation.

He is an active member of the State Democratic Party and was chairman of Arkansas Democrats for Johnson during the 1964 presidential campaign.

Pilkinton is also a member of the American, Arkansas, Southwest Arkansas and Hempstead County Bar Associations.

He served as state senator from the old 9th Senatorial District from 1933 to 1941 and as prosecuting attorney from the 8th Judicial District from 1947 to 1951. He was chancellor of the 6th district from 1951 to 1961, and presently serves as city attorney at Hope.

Pilkinton is married to the former Marquerite Crumpler of Smackover. They have two children, Tena Louise, 21, a senior at the University of Arkansas, and James H. Pilkinton, 17, a 1966 graduate of Hope High School.

HELEN HELP US!

—by Helen Battel—

If You Don't Feel It, Fake It
Dear Helen: We have almost a perfect married life. It's the second marriage for both of us. We agree on raising the children — his and mine — finances are no problem, he likes my cooking and housekeeping, and I like the way he considers us first in everything. We love each other, and I'm not "frigid."

But there's one problem which though it won't break up our marriage, causes ripples.

I'm not affectionate, and my husband is. K don't talk to much and he loves to talk. He can tell me 50 times a day he loves me and the children and I can't get the words out. I come from a very undemonstrative family who never show their real feelings. He was on his own from the time he was 14 married late and I guess needs all the demonstrated love he missed. He's hurt because I'm not aggressive. I'm not "lovey" with the children either, but since I don't tell him, he feels I don't really love him. I'd be embarrassed, coming to HIM.

How can I convince him? — Quiet One.

Dear Quiet One: . . . With abandon! Forget that repressed upbringing, let yourself go and a "lady," even if you have to fake it at first. Embarrassing, Huh! Eager wives are the best kind.

After you've learned what a woman you're a woman, not little aggression can do for a gal, you'll hate yourself for having wasted all those passive years.

And I predict the children will benefit, too, because you'll be showing them the affection you once could only silently feel. — H.

Out of The Mouths of Babes
Dear Helen: I am nine years old. My birthday was in March

Dear Helen: It's for "Sleepless" whose husband snores. I don't know why any woman who half a brain doesn't do what I have been doing all my seven years of marriage.

I've never complained to my husband about his snoring. Instead if he starts snoring at night, I murmur to him, "Honey please turn around, I want to hug you." And if he starts in again later, I tell him, "Honey, please hug me — I just had a bad dream." As long as he turns every so often his snoring will stop.

It works Try It! — Cathy Cud-dles

Dear Cathy: What a lovely way to get some sleep — and lose a little too. May your husband never stop snoring — on purpose or otherwise. — H.

Sneezing Girl Gains Ground

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — June Clark appears to be gaining ground in her months-old battle against sneezing.

The 17-year-old girl, who had been sneezing as often as once every five seconds, now sneezes only every 8 to 10 minutes, her father said Monday.

June has improved since she awoke from a chemically induced sleep. She had been put to sleep at a hospital in hopes the treatment would alter the reflexes believed to have caused the sneezing since early January.

By MURRAY CHASS
This is Frank Robinson's first year in the American League, and already he's starting a second season.

The Baltimore slugger began the second week of his new season Tuesday night, driving in the winning run with his fourth hit of the game as the Orioles edged Washington 6-5 in 12 innings.

Robinson, acquired from Cincinnati in baseball's biggest winter deal, began his first year in the AL explosively, getting nearly as many hits as outs and rocketing to a .474 average by April 29. But one month and a steady drop later, Robinson was hitting .308.

A shoulder injury and a pulled muscle in his right leg were believed at least partly responsible for the slide, so Robinson was given a rest.

Now that he's returned to the line-up, it's as if he's starting the season all over.

The 30-year-old right fielder sat out the second game of a doubleheader May 30, then batted only twice the next day and pinch hit the day after that. He rested for another whole game before getting back into fulltime action, and now his record resembles that of the first few weeks.

In his last 25 times at bat, Robinson has lashed 15 hits, including four homers, scored 10 runs and driven in eight. That has been enough to shoot his average up to .351, an increase of 43 points that has thrust him to the top of the league in hitting.

In that same period, the second-place Orioles have won seven of nine games and moved from three games behind league-leading Cleveland to within five percentage points of the top.

With Robinson hitting explosively again, the Indians might be happy to have the season end right now.

In other AL games, New York downed Cleveland 7-2, Detroit edged Boston 2-1, California nipped Chicago 3-2 and Minnesota whipped Kansas City 6-1.

Clemente and Stargell Bat Pirates to Win

By DICK COUCH
Harry Walker's biggest problem this month has been keeping the top of the National League's top five hitters busy in a three-man outfield.

The problem disappeared Tuesday night. Two of them couldn't see.

But the two who could — Roberto Clemente and Willie Stargell — combined for five hits as the Pittsburgh Pirates blasted St. Louis 9-1 with an eight-run eighth-inning explosion and extended their June winning streak to six games.

Manny Mota and Matty Alou, half of the Pirates' outstanding outfield quartet, complained before the game that their vision was impaired by eyedrops given them during an afternoon examination by a doctor.

The Cardinals' Bob Gibson threw invisible baseballs for seven innings, striking out 12, before the Pirates caught him in their sights. Clemente triggered the eighth-inning rally with a single, capped it with a three-run homer and finished with three hits in five trips.

Stargell, whose string of consecutive hits was snapped at nine by Gibson in the first inning, picked up two hits afterward. Mota got into the game as a pinch runner and finished in center field but did not bat.

Mota leads the league in batting with a .345 average while Alou and Stargell are tied for third at .329 and Clemente shares the No. 5 spot with Houston's Joe Morgan at .328. Dave Nicholson of the Astros is second with a .336 mark.

Jim Bunning won his eighth straight as Philadelphia whipped Cincinnati 5-1; Nicholson, John Bateman and Sonny Jackson led Houston past San Francisco 10-9; Los Angeles topped Chicago 8-6 on 10th inning homers by Al Ferrara and Jim Lefebvre, and Atlanta bombed New York 11-6 in other National League action.

Baltimore edged Washington 6-5 in 12 innings, New York downed Cleveland 7-2, Detroit nipped Boston 2-1, California shaded Chicago 3-2 and Minnesota topped Kansas City 6-1 in the American League.

Bunning, now 8-1, struck out 14 Cincinnati batters and allowed only three hits as the Phillies breezed to their eighth triumph in the last nine games.

Bill White cracked a two-run inside-the-park homer in the first inning and Cookie Rojas hit a bases-empty shot in the seventh for the winners.

Handicapped Patients Really Swing

CHICAGO (AP) — They had a swinging session at the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago Monday night. Some 100 physically handicapped patients clapped their hands as a Dixieland quartet blared through "Bill Bailey, Won't You Please Come Home."

If the audience was unusual, the musicians — a roman Catholic priest, two Protestant ministers and a rabbi — were more so.

The group, called the "Clergy Reps. Thomas Abernethy, Joseph L. Dustin, 50, on the and William Colmer also won handily. The Rev. Ex-presidents Support the UN

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former Presidents Harry S. Truman, 82, and Dwight D. Eisenhower, 75, made a joint appearance Monday at a luncheon supporting the United Nations.

Both men appeared weary after the nearly two-hour luncheon sponsored by UN We Believe, a group that seeks support for the international body. They confined their remarks to a few words.

"If it (world peace) goes through, you and I can feel good about it and retire," said Truman looking at Eisenhower. "I'm an enthusiastic supporter of the United Nations," Eisenhower said.

Eastland Is Winner in Mississippi

By JAMES SAGGUS
JACKSON Miss. (AP) — Sen. James O. Eastland and four Democratic congressmen held primary victories today in re-election bids that shattered Negro hopes for gaining a balance of power vote.

Although Negro registration had risen to almost 20 per cent of the estimated 675,000 total, a Negro-backed ticket got only about 12 per cent of the votes in Tuesday's primary balloting. Eastland scored a 4-1 victory over two opponents in the only statewide race, while veteran Reps. Thomas Abernethy, Joseph L. Dustin, 50, on the and William Colmer also won handily. The Rev. Prospects of Pro Football War Fades

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Prospects for peace between pro football's feuding major leagues appeared brighter today despite the interjection of two big names — Green Bay's Paul Hornung and San Diego's Paul Lowe — into the simmering power struggle.

The peace offensive picked up steam Tuesday when Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, confirmed earlier reports of secret meetings between NFL and American Football League club owners.

Although Rozelle insisted that no progress had been made in the talks, his admission of their existence lent some credence to speculation that an end to hostilities, a common draft and eventual inter-league play are in sight.

Meanwhile, Hornung, the New York Jets of the American League and the NFL champion Packers are busy denying a published report of the Green Bay halfback's alleged defection to the AFL club and Lowe, the AFL's rushing king last season, was adding his name to a mushrooming list of stars involved in the player-raid controversy that has set the two leagues at each other's throat.

Lake Traffic Has Increased

ST. LAMBERT, Que. (AP) — Traffic through the Montreal-Lake Ontario section of the St. Lawrence Seaway during April and May increased 29.5 per cent over the same month last year, says Transport Minister J. W. Pickersgill.

He said April-May tonnage was 12 million compared to 8.6 million in 1965.

Surveyor is expected to continue functioning for some two weeks, until lunar night shuts off solar-cell power supply.

Arrow indicates what is believed to be tip of one of the unfolding, petal-like panels that protected camera during flight from earth. Thinks Insect Protein May Be of Value

By STRATFORD C. JONES
NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The message is simple enough:

"I believe that dieticians and economists should seriously explore the nutritional value of insects and the possibility of extracting their protein and incorporating it into other food-stuffs."

But it's a message that Dr. Ronald L. Taylor, an insect physiologist-pathologist at the University of California's Irvine campus, has been having a tough time getting across.

The trouble arises when he gets to details, such as: "To really appreciate intact recognizable insects as food they need to be prepared fresh."

"Yukkkkk! Blahhhhh! Creepy!" are the usual verbal responses, and eyebrows go up. Especially when Taylor fries up a batch of still-squirming caterpillars and passes them around.

Still, Taylor, 28, continues spreading the word. But as a researcher concerned primarily with inducing tumors in insects and isolating any nucleic acids they produce, he doesn't have too much time for it. He hopes to find out what these acids are and whether they're possibly a virus, a finding other researchers might be able to use in cancer research.

He considers research on human use of insects as a protein source a necessity.

"Some say that if the population increase continues at its present rate we have at best 50 to 60 years of steak and then we will have to turn vegetarian or find other sources of animal protein. Insects constitute one of the best remaining resources of animal protein in the world."

"If insect protein were incorporated in other food, such as flours and meals, you wouldn't even know the insects were there. There is no need to eat them whole, as gourmet items, and I'm not saying that they should be eaten this way."

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Artie Shaw was always the maverick of the swing-music world — a rebel, an innovator, a restless talent who son wearied to tooting his clarinet for the masses. He continues his maverick ways as head of his own movie company, Artixco Productions.

Now 56 with shaved head, Shaw was here to show Hollywood his latest release, "Enough Rope," a French-made thriller starring Gert Frobe ("Goldfinger") Shaw's offices are in New York and he has scant affection for Hollywood, which he knew intimately during his bandleading and marrying days.

Nor does he have the slightest sentiment for his heyday in the swing era.

"I look at some of my contemporaries who are still leading bands and I wonder how they do it," he sighed. "All that living out of a trunk and playing the same things night after night!"

"They aren't even selling music any more; they're selling nostalgia to middle-aged people who want to relive their youth." Shaw tried to break out of the band business several times. He finally managed it in 1950, only to return in 1953.

"I went back only to feed some cows," he explained. "I had acquired a farm and 80 cows, and they were eating their way through my money. I earned enough to keep the farm going and then I quit again."

"Now I'll never go back. You can believe that when I say that I recently turned down $25,000 to appear for four minutes on a television special."

"In the first place, I would have to practice steadily for six months before I could stand to hear my own playing. And in the second place, I don't like to here the clarinet that well."

Shaw finally quit the clarinet to see if he could write. He discovered he could, and he produced a novel, "The Trouble with Cinderella." In 1956, he retired to Spain with his eighth wife, Evelyn Keyes, to whom he has been married nine years.

Hope Man Writes
From Viet Nam

Dear Mom & Dad:
"Hi there. Just got your letters today and I am really glad to hear all is fine. You talk about rain, this is the rainy season over here and it rains every day. For the past two weeks it has really been coming down. It will be like this for a couple of more months and then we get the dry season again. Its either hot and dry or raining all the time and hot too. Although with the rain it cools things off at night. I got so cold one night I had to put on a T-shirt and cover up with a sheet, it was down to 85 degrees I guess."

I guess old Hope is in the swing for Summer already. Bet it was pretty during Spring back there. It always was a pretty time of year.

We have house girls that come in everyday and clean our rooms. They make the beds, sweep and mop floors and wash clothes every day and it costs us about the Equivalent of $8.50 per month. As you can see the wages are low. The common laborers that build roads earn about 6c an hour. There are a few that have gone to trade school and learned to drive tractors, graders and heavy equipment that earn about 20c an hour.

The military hires a lot of workers, some of the girls have gone to typing schools and work as secretaries & clerks and others drive trucks and wash the planes or just about anything that will release the men from extra duty such as KP. The government pays for it all because it helps their economy and helps our relations, so I'm told.

I'm still flying quiet a lot, just about every day I go somewhere. The last few weeks I've been working with the 1st Infantry Division carrying supplies from Saigon to the field and the past week 3 planes and mine brought them out and back to their home base. They were all glad to get out of the jungle and to quarters where it is secure.

One trip last week I brought 27 prisoners out to be questioned by the People in Saigon and they are sure a sight to see. Looks like they would have stayed out in he woods and jungle another week they would have died from hunger and infection. They did not have clothes to speak of & no gun when they were captured. They had spears and crossbows just like over 100 years ago when there weren't any guns much at all. There was a few of our guys wounded and they came out by helicopters. There weren't any killed that I know of, most of them being wounded by snipers.

I think I only got three holes shot in my plane this week, they sure are bad shots. I'm glad of it though.

I am looking forward to this Christmas at home with everyone.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "Summer Music Hall" moved into Andy Williams' usual hour on NBC Monday night for a warm weather stay. It was a happy time with freshness and exuberance.

John Davidson, an engaging young baritone who first attracted attention in "The Entertainers" last season, is the star of the show, surrounded by a number of attractive young performers.

Musically, the show is to the right of "Hullabaloo" but a bit left of Andy Williams. One of the most amusing comedy numbers was a monologue by comedian George Carlin in which he did an imitation of a fast-talking radio rock 'n' roll disc jockey of the scene that seems to be all over the air waves these days.

Five cute blondes called "The King Cousins" — a spin off from the recent "King Family" show — were around as a singing, dancing quintet. A very talented young man, Richard Pryor, had some fine off-beat pantomime numbers including one about a skin diver approaching a shark and another about a Russian weight lifter.

From the simple, colorful sets to the tuneful music, the atmosphere was straw hat and holiday.

But apparently the producers felt it was mandatory to follow the variety show format that calls for a windup with a gimmick — Como's solo spot, Williams' informal spot, Skellon's silent spot.

Davidson's spot had him wandering among studio guests and pausing at a couple of tables for some stumbling interviews with some self-conscious middle-aged couples. He wound up singing a few songs popular in the days when the couples were dating. They were snatches of old hit songs and Davidson had a horrible time with the lyrics.

The magnificent preparations of the television networks camera pool to cover the splashdown of a space capsule on a live basis really paid off Monday.

Cameras aboard the carrier Wasp were able to bring to television audiences, as it happened, the remarkable sight of the parachute and its burden as it dropped gently from the skies into the ocean.

Because the splashdown was so close to the carrier, and because the astronauts were able to remain in the space vehicle, we were able to follow every step of the recovery procedures from beginning to end aboard the ship's deck.

The decathlon is an athletic competition in track which lasts two days. It has been an Olympic event since 1912. Contestants are required to run the 100-yard dash and compete in high jump, shot-put and 400-meter run on the first day. On the second day they enter the 110 meter hurdles, the discus throw, the pole vault, the javelin throw and the 1,500-meter run.

Oswald asks: "What do you think of the bidding of today's hand?"

Jim: "If North and South were experts they should have bid it under assumed names. North started on the wrong foot by bidding a diamond rather than a heart. When he bid three hearts next, South was afraid of a four-card suit and bid three no-trump. Can't criticize North for going on to four diamonds but when South merely returned to four hearts, North should have been happy to quit. Instead he bid four no-trump, whereupon South decided that one bad bid deserved another and jumped to six."

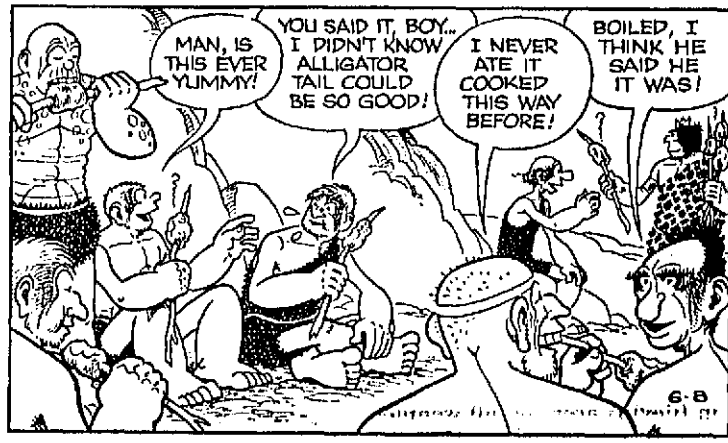

Oswald: "A moderate analysis. North's bidding was frightful but even though West opened a club, South was able to bring the contract home. See if you can figure out how he did it. I will give you a clue. East made a silly falsecard somewhere along the way."

Jim: "Let's assume that East won the first club and returned the suit. Declarer would lead a heart to his king. With the queen-jack of hearts dropping doubleton he would have five hearts, two spades and two clubs but he would need three diamond tricks. You don't mean to tell me that East dropped the eight of hearts on the first heart lead?"

Oswald: "He sure did. Actually, South cashed dummy's ace of spades before leading to his king of hearts. Then, when East dropped the eight and West the jack, South took a diamond finesse and laid down dummy's ace of hearts. This dropped West's queen and since East had already played the eight-spot, the seven of hearts was established as an extra entry to his own hand for a second diamond finesse. Of course, South cashed his king of spades and high club before taking this second finesse in diamonds."

Jim: "East wins the prize. His bad play had to be the worst."

Poll Reveals LBJ Losing Confidence

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson tried to play it cool while critics of the Viet Nam war raised the temperature and now opinion polls indicate a dwindling confidence in the way he handles his job.

There are other reasons for what seems to be a growing disenchantment.

But the poll results must be disturbing to a man who likes to feel he has broad public support for his actions before he acts. Consensus, he calls it. He had it in 1965, a calmer time than this.

In that first year after his election Congress, overwhelmingly controlled by his Democrats, listened to him dutifully and responded with the most productive legislature year in history.

He isn't having the same sleighride now. In the meantime two things above all happened:

The United States got up to its neck in Viet Nam, where factional chaos sometimes makes American help look ludicrous, and the criticism of American involvement and Johnson's leadership took on big dimensions. Johnson had a choice.

He could have tackled his critics head on—say with a detailed explanation to the nation on television—or let his top aides do the answering.

He chose the second course which has been much less than fully effective.

His own explanations have been in bits and pieces in speeches and news conferences, sandwiched in among other things, and his aides, trying to state the administration's case to Congress, got banged and interrupted by critics.

Perhaps Johnson hoped as weeks and months passed the war would take such a happy turn that the critics, and the doubts and discontent set ablaze by them, would be rendered meaningless. Instead the war got worse.

This failure of Johnson to handle his critics directly may turn out to be one of his greatest mistakes. Yet Johnson, like other conscientious, hard-working men, is extremely sensitive to criticism.

But Congress is also sensitive—about the voter—in an election year like this when all the House seats and one-third of those in the Senate are at stake.

This explains in part why Johnson can't work the same magic with Congress in 1966 that he did in 1965. His requests are no longer being steam-rolled through and Congress is dumping advice on him from all directions.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Prospective Motorcyclists
Need Special Instruction

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

This is a world wherein things are constantly changing and often the changes sneak up on us so gradually that we are unaware of them. For example, five years ago motorcycle accidents were relatively rare. Then, several cheap, lightweight, foreign motorcycles appeared on the scene and the annual death toll soared to 1,500 a year with every indication that it will get worse before it gets better—in other words before the public becomes sufficiently aroused to do something about it.

This increase in motorcycle deaths is only part of the story. Thousands of persons—mostly thrill-seeking teenagers—come out of motorcycle accidents alive but badly mangled for life. If you drive your automobile into a brick wall at a speed of 15 m.p.h. and are wearing a seat belt, you will be shaken up and your car will be a mess but your injuries will be slight, if any. Try the same maneuver with a motorcycle and you will fly through the air with the greatest of ease and with a minimal chance of survival.

Most youngsters who have passed their driving tests to operate the family car do not realize that there is very little similarity between the operation of an automobile and a two-wheeled vehicle. It takes careful instruction and time to learn to operate a motorcycle safely.

According to the National Safety Council, most motorcycle dealers do not give such instructions and many of them don't even know the rules of safety. That means that your son will probably have to learn by trial and error—a hazardous business at best.

Astronaut M. Scott Carpenter learned the hard way that flying through outer space was safer than operating a two-wheeler, which is a basically unstable contraption. A few states are making a beginning in furthering motorcycle safety by requiring driving tests for motorcyclists and vehicle inspections.

Once your son has mastered the technique of driving a motorcycle he must not leap to the conclusion that he can safely take on a rider. A large percentage of the casualties in motorcycle accidents are passengers. Carrying a passenger alters the technique of turning, braking, accelerating and passing.

The booklet, "Two-Wheeled Wisdom," published by the American Motorcycle Association should be carefully studied by all prospective motorcyclists. Adherence to its precepts would drastically cut the accident rate.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Rude Awakening

No matter how old a man gets, it seems, he must always keep himself prepared for the little jolt that comes when reality steps in and shatters a treasured fantasy. Little boys learn the truth about the good fairy. Older boys learn that there isn't just one Lassie, but several, that even they use stand-ins for the really tough scenes.

And sooner or later adult men must learn, as we have today, about beauty queens. From afar they all seem to epitomize feminine perfection — grace, beauty, wit, charm, gentle warmth, all the attributes the average red-blooded American male would want to seize for himself and place on his own private pedestal.

But a closer look is likely to reveal that it isn't so at all, as with Maria Remenyi, the New Miss United States. Behind all that pulchritude there lies a tough-minded brunette who demands excellent manners and strong masculinity in men, and who, at the age of 20, speaks four languages, going on five, majors in physics, and plans to pursue a doctorate into a research career in high energy physics.

What a shock, to be so charmed by a facade, and discover that underneath it's only Werner Von Braun, with legs. — Charlotte (N.C.) News.

That's Inflation

If you don't believe that our lawmakers in Washington are aware of inflationary trends, consider this: Senator Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania used to have a policy of returning any gift admirers sent him that was worth more than $2.50. Recently he changed the limit to $5. — Savannah (Ga.) Morning News.

Reassured

The latest Gallup poll reports that 65 per cent of women and 62 per cent of men think it poor taste for women to appear in public in hair curlers. There are no figures on what percentages think it wrong for men to appear in hair curlers, but such a survey, it seems, is not far in the future.

Of the 65 per cent of the women and 62 per cent of the men who are against public hair curlers, Gallup reports, with an apparent straight face: "Those persons interviewed who have attended college are more likely to feel this way than those whose education has not gone beyond high school or grade school levels."

It gives us a whole new assurance about the worth of American higher education. — Oak Ridge (Tenn.) Oak Ridger.

Difference

Reduced to basic terms, the difference between communism and Christianity is that one believes hate is the motivating force of the world whereas the other believes love is. — Orlando (Fla.) Sentinel.

AP&L Asks Okay to Contract

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Arkansas Power & Light Co. has asked the state Public Service Commission to approve a new contract with Reynolds Metals Co.

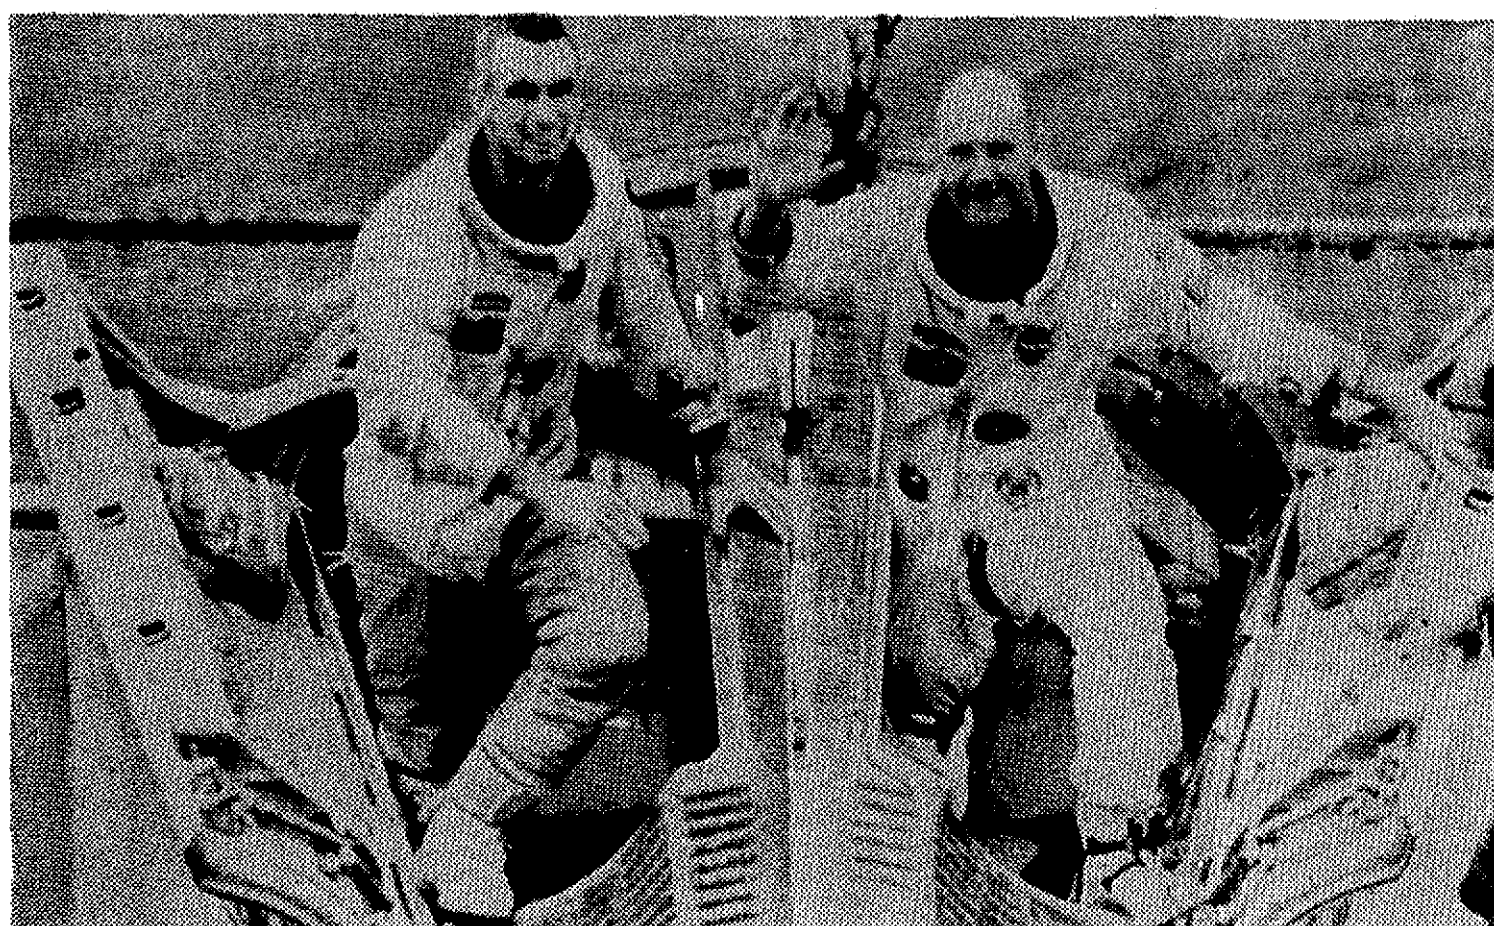

AP&L told the commission Tuesday that Reynolds uses about 260,000 kilowatts of power per year, about the same amount used by 60,000 AP&L customers in the Little Rock area.

Reynolds would buy about 310,000 kilowatts for an alumina plant near Bauxite and reduction plants at Jones Mills and Gums Springs in Central Arkansas.

Another Jones Mills plant recently acquired from General Motors would also be placed under the new 10-year contract which would become effective immediately upon PSC approval.

Bids Taken for Training School

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — The B.A.P. Stratton Construction Co. of Sheridan has submitted the apparent low bid for construction of four staff duplexes at the Boys Training School in Pine Bluff.

Saratoga Told to Integrate Its School

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — Three Howard County school districts were told Tuesday to come up with a suitable plan by June 29 under which desegregation of classes could begin or face a trial in federal court.

The directive came from federal Judge Oren Harris at a pre-trial conference on a suit by the government to abolish dual districts in the county.

Involved are the Mineral Springs, Saratoga and Howard County Training School districts.

The Mineral Springs and Howard County Training School districts have filed briefs with Harris saying they are willing to consolidate and offer a freedom-of-choice plan of desegregation.

The Saratoga District has asked for dismissal of the suit on grounds that the federal court does not have jurisdiction. It said it interpreted federal laws to mean that the government could take action only upon complaints by school patrons and there had been none.

A maze of problems caused primarily by overlapping of the three districts was outlined at the hearing.

Harris compared the problem to a jigsaw puzzle. "This is an unusual situation. There is no other like it so far as I know," he said.

Harris gave school officials until 10 a.m. June 20 to report to the court. If they cannot work out a suitable plan by then, he said, the case will be set for trial.

U.S. Attorney Charles Conway told the court that the only interest of the government in the case was to see that children in the area receive a desegregated education.

He said the government believes that creation of one school district is the best solution to the problem, but that no objection would be made to a two-district plan.

Harris urged school officials to work out the problem on their own, saying he did not want to tell them how to set the district boundaries.

Co. Quorum Court Meets Briefly

Hempstead Quorum Court met briefly yesterday, levied a 1½ mill bond tax and suspended collection of the tax.

The tax levy was in connection with the $222,000 bond issue approved by Hempstead voters for construction of a new building here for Standard Generator Co.

Although the tax protects the bonds it will not be collected unless the company defaults. Standard Generator pays off the bond issue in rental.

There were 20 of 26 Quorum Court members present.

Meredith's March Goes on in Mississippi

By BOB GILBERT

HARRAND, Miss. (AP) — Major civil rights leaders continue James H. Meredith's march through Mississippi today.

Gov. Paul Johnson condemned the march but promised police protection for it. Five Negro leaders combined forces to carry on the 225-mile walk to Jackson, Miss., started by Meredith and interrupted by three shotgun blasts.

Aubrey J. Norvell, 40, a Memphis white man accused of assault with intent to murder in the wounding of Meredith with birdshot, was held under $25,000 bond. His lawyers were drafting an appeal to have the bond reduced.

Three bus loads of sympathizers from Chicago will join the march soon, said Floyd McKissick, head of the Congress of Racial Equality.

"We have made a national call for people to come," said Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. "The number will grow every day."

Jailbreaker Is Captured

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A Louisiana man charged with breaking jail in Lafayette County in Arkansas has been ordered returned to the state by Texas Gov. John Connally.

Connally ordered the extradition Tuesday, acting on the recommendation of Secretary of State John Hill, who conducted a hearing May 24.

The man, Joseph Marion Ferguson, 28, a Shreveport, La. native, was sentenced to 31 years for burglary, according to records shown at the hearing.

Ferguson's alleged escape from the county jail where he was being held temporarily was the basis for extradition, Assistant Atty. Gen. Gilbert Pena said. The offense is punishable by up to five years in prison under Arkansas law.

Hurricane Alma Strikes Key West, Fla.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Alma struck Key West today with gusts of 100 miles an hour. Sustained winds of 60 miles an hour howled through the island city while the hurricane's eye was still three or four hours away.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Alma battered the Cuban capital of Havana with 117-mile-an-hour winds and a deluge of rain today, then slammed into the Gulf of Mexico bound for Key West.

Unweakened in the crossing of the Cuban island, the storm clung to a north-northeast course that could take the eye close to Key West and bring the lightly populated lower Florida west coast in close range.

The storm may have dealt a damaging blow to the Cuban sugar crop—mainstay of Fidel Castro's economy—and to other crops. Initial food-rationed nation.

Gale warning flags flew halfway up the Florida mainland as the hurricane approached.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Someone taped four separation devices to a protective shroud instead of fastening them firmly to disconnect plugs. It was a human error that cost the Gemini 9 astronauts a chance to dock with their target satellite.

Here is an anatomy of that error: The background: The satellite, called ATDA, for augmented target docking adapter, was launched a week ago today. There was an indication that perhaps a shroud covering the docking collar on the ATDA had not jettisoned.

Gemini 9 astronauts Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene A. Cernan, stalled two days by a guidance problem, took off in pursuit of the satellite Friday. When they caught it, they found that indeed the 17-inch spun glass shroud was still in place.

But it had started the separation process and its two clamshell halves were parted. Stafford radioed that it looked like an "angry alligator," a description that will live long in the annals of space.

With the docking collar covered, the astronauts had to abandon the linkup attempt. They went on to conduct different types of rendezvous with the ATDA and to Cernan's record space walk.

The quick look: Stafford told ground stations that the shroud appeared to be hung up by four bundles of electrical wires and also said it appeared that small lanyards might not have been connected properly. Cernan snapped several close-in pictures of the shroud.

The lanyards, about the size of a six-inch-long soda straw were designed to be hooked to disconnect plugs and to yank them out during the separation sequence, which is triggered by firing explosive bolts.

The four plugs were joined to bundles of wires which provided a power relay for the separation sequence. With the lanyards not connected, they could not pull out the plugs and the shroud hung up on the wires.

The official report: With Stafford's information, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration ran back through the history of the shroud and learned some interesting things.

It did not report the whole story but a vague statement admitted that someone erred. The statement, released Tuesday several hours after some news media carried some facts about the situation, said:

"An error in the separation procedure prior to launch was the cause of the ATDA shroud separation malfunction. The written procedures used by technicians at Cape Kennedy to ready the ATDA for flight were found to be insufficiently detailed to insure proper installation of lanyards attached to shroud separation mechanisms. As a result one end of the lanyards was not properly secured."

Contributions are now being taken for the upkeep of Macedonia Cemetery. They should be sent to Mrs. M. T. Hubbard of Hope Rt. 4.

Reagan Strong Winner in California Vote

By BILL BOYARSKY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ronald Reagan ran away with the Republican nomination for governor of California today and pledged to unite the party for a November challenge to Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown's bid for a third term.

Reagan's overwhelming defeat of former San Francisco mayor George Christopher — and Los Angeles mayor Samuel W. Yorty's strong showing against Brown — prompted the governor to admit that he's got "a tough fight" ahead.

Never before in California history as a Democratic governor won a third term. Brown is the first Democrat in more than 100 years to serve two terms.

Reagan, the youthful looking, 55-year-old television and movie star, moved to the front of his party in his first bid for public office.

Many Killed in Korea Accident

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Fifteen persons were killed and 44 others were injured Monday when a bus plunged down a 330-foot cliff near Chonji, 100 miles south of Seoul, police reported today.

The administration bill's proposed ban on racial and religious discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing could cause months of delay or doom the omnibus measure completely, said Rep. Charles McMathias Jr., R-Md., spokesman for the group of House Republicans which introduced the separate bill Tuesday.

But Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee which also is considering the civil rights bill, informed the Republicans he will oppose their move. Celler favors the open housing provision and thinks its chances are better if the bill remains intact.

The open housing provision was all but ignored at Tuesday's Senate subcommittee hearing following Meredith's shooting Monday during a Mississippi civil rights march.

Attention focused instead on a section to make it a federal crime to interfere forcibly with anyone, because of his race, color, or religion, while engaging in the exercise of his constitutional rights.

The bill also would provide federal criminal penalties for violence against civil rights workers and peaceful demonstrators, with punishment up to life imprisonment in case of fatal injuries.

Katzenbach called this part of the bill, along with sections to prohibit discrimination in the selection of state and federal juries, absolutely essential to deal with cases like the shooting of Meredith.

Paratroopers All But Wipe Out Battalion

By ANDREW BOROWIECE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers all but wiped out a determined battalion of North Vietnamese regulars today after two days of bitter fighting, a military spokesman reported. He said the enemy left 292 dead strewn over a five-mile battlefield in the central highlands after offering stiff resistance.

The picture given by the U.S. spokesman indicated a significant victory over the enemy troops after a weeklong lull in ground action in South Viet Nam.

The Communists hit back with a blistering mortar attack on a U.S. military advisers' compound in the Mekong Delta, killing some Americans.

A squadron of helicopters poured more men of the 101st Airborne Brigade into the raging fight 260 miles northeast of Saigon as South Viet Nam's political crisis took a calmer turn.

The moderate leader of the Buddhist Institute called for a halt to rioting and human sacrifices but said his followers will continue to struggle in a "non-violent spirit" to overthrow Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's regime.

The declaration by Thich Xuy Chau, chief architect of an abandoned political truce with the military junta last week, promised continued although perhaps less dangerous civil unrest as the ruling generals prepared for national elections Sept. 11.

Says Ambush Won't Affect Rights Bill

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., said today he does not think the ambush shooting of James H. Meredith will have any effect on hearings on the administration's civil rights bill.

"This bill has too many potentialities for injury to be passed in a hurry," the North Carolina Democrat and chairman of the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee told newsmen.

The subcommittee already has a schedule of witnesses for the rest of the month, and Ervin said he could not predict when it might act on the bill.

As Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach returns for a third day of testimony before Ervin's subcommittee today, 19 House Republicans pressed a drive to break up the omnibus bill and seek wuick passage as a separate measure a section dealing with civil rights violence.

The administration bill's proposed ban on racial and religious discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing could cause months of delay or doom the omnibus measure completely, said Rep. Charles McMathias Jr., R-Md., spokesman for the group of House Republicans which introduced the separate bill Tuesday.

But Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee which also is considering the civil rights bill, informed the Republicans he will oppose their move. Celler favors the open housing provision and thinks its chances are better if the bill remains intact.
